EGGENTAL VALLEY AFTER STORM VAIA

In October 2018, storm Vaia left a trail of devastation in the forests of the Eggental Valley and across the Alpine region. Powerful, hurricane-like gusts uprooted countless trees across wide areas.

Cleanup efforts began immediately and were carried out impressively, but wind and snow pressure caused additional damage in the following months, and bark beetle infestations presented further challenges.

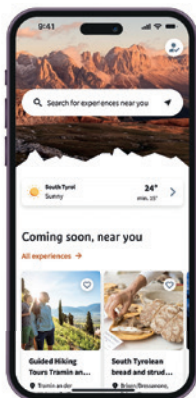

Nevertheless, signs of recovery are already visible, with pioneer plants spreading and new forest gradually regenerating through natural processes.
